Volunteers provided first aid, wound care, and health assessments, ensuring individuals received guidance on further medical assistance. This initiative provided essential aid while connecting medical students with the community, reinforcing the importance of compassion and service in healthcare. AMSA also collaborated with EPSU Outdoor Community for their annual polar plunge in the icy waters of Lake Rusałka. For the second year, the Student Pediatric Club, AMSA, and EPSU Musicians Club came together to spread festive cheer at the pediatric hospital. Just days before Christmas, 20 student volunteers visited different wards, singing carols and gifting chocolates donated by PUMS students. Inspired by last year's success, the event aimed to uplift spirits, bring warmth, and create lasting smiles, making the holiday season brighter for children and their families.
